Sudipa was a fighter; she faced cancer straight up and fought hard. In 2008 she was diagnosed with Hodgkin's Lymphoma. She went through chemotherapy and radiation; was cured completely. In 2014 she was greeted by breast cancer. Again, infusions, double mastectomy with reconstruction. She overcame that too. If this was not enough, she had two brain surgeries to remove benign tumors. She was even better after that with no complications in her recovery from these two complicated brain surgeries. And then arrived renal cell carcinoma last year. All treatment options were exhausted……she kept fighting……and then finally she lost the battle.

My beloved wife, the mother of our precious little daughter, was a fighter. In the midst of all of these, she managed to raise our daughter and take care of her family. Even when she was fighting for her life in the ICU, although she was not able to talk, she gave me a final thumbs up to signal that she will be fine. Now she is watching over me, my every move and I have to be in my best behavior, or else…..she will make sure that I do things right. I am the person today, because of her. She was my guiding light. She is my beating heart. She will always be. We have countless memories and I'll cherish them every day for the rest of my life.

On behalf of my wife, me and my daughter want to acknowledge the doctors, the nurses, the caregivers, oncology researchers and the pharmaceutical/biotech community that gave my wife the platform to fight for the last 12 years. Let the fight continue as we strive to tackle this deadly disease. #BeatCancer

Cervical cancer is a leading cause of death in Indian women. All donations will proceed to Cancer Foundation of India, a leading NGO in fighting cancer in India, towards a drive for making Khas Shankdaha, a village in West Bengal, free from cervical cancer through HPV vaccination of adolescent girls between 9-15 years under the leadership of Tuhina Chatterjee, a social worker.
